DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-33, drawn to an oscillator, classified in class 331, subclass 158.
  - II. Claims 34-36, drawn to a phase-locked loop, classified in class 331, subclass 17.
  - III. Claim 37, drawn to a CATV tuner having an oscillator and phase-locked loop, classified in class 455, subclass 150.1.
  - IV. Claim 38, drawn to a set-top box, classified in class 725, subclass 31.
  - V. Claim 39, drawn to a television, classified in class 348, subclass 731.
  - VI. Claim 40, drawn to a VCR, classified in class 386, subclass 46.
  - VII. Claim 41, drawn to a cable modem, classified in class 725, subclass 111.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as for use within a community antenna television, television, VCR, or cable modem tuner circuit not using the particular construction of the differential oscillator of invention I. See MPEP § 806.05(d).
3. Inventions III and I or II, respectively, are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of either subcombination as claimed because the CATV tuner can otherwise be constructed with the particulars of either the reference oscillator or phase-locked loop set forth in Groups I or II. The subcombinations have separate utility as indicated above.

4. Inventions V, VI, or VII and III are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combinations as claimed do not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because they could be readily constructed using other known CATV tuner devices and otherwise make possible the reception of television signals. The subcombination has separate utility such as a home terminal device, such as a set-top box.

5. Inventions IV, V, and VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions each have a cable television tuner circuit for the purpose of cable television reception, and one would not use these devices in the manner indicated due to the duplicative function of tuning which would accordingly be performed. Furthermore, each device operates in a manner to achieve different effects: the tuning and subsequent modulation of a cable television cable television channel, the display of a cable television channel, the recording of a cable television channel, and the reception via a broadband modem of a cable television channel.

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for and one group is not required for the other groups, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

8. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

9. A telephone call was made to Jeffrey T. Helvey on 1/29/03 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

10. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
